The release of the new Pixar & Disney/Pixar's upcoming film is just around the corner. After the success of “Inside Out”, “El viaje de Arlo” (“The good dinosaur”) is coming to the big screen. A movie that will move young and adult audiences this winter.

The story tells us what would happen if the dinosaurs had never become extinct, with a child-like look, a sweet tone and a beyond adorable design.

► NOTICIA ◀

SINOPSIS

La acción traslada a los personajes a un mundo donde el asteroide que terminó de forma dramática con los dinosaurios, pasa de largo. La consecuencia de este cambio es que ahora los dinosaurios y los humanos tendrán que vivir juntos en la Tierra. En un planeta donde no deberían seguir existiendo, los animales más longevos del planeta luchan por convivir y mantener la paz con los humanos. En este hipotético mundo donde el instinto es el arma de cada día, un gigantesco dinosaurio llamado Arlo y un pequeño niño humano al que Arlo le da el apodo de Spot, demostrarán que todo es posible. El planeta deberá ser lo suficientemente grande para albergar a los dinosaurios y a los hombres...

Con la gracia que solo puede salir cuando Pixar y Disney se juntan en un proyecto, esta comedia familiar de animación reparte humor y lecciones morales. Amistad, comprensión, adaptación y supervivencia, son los pilares en los que se basan para contarnos esta historia tierna y divertida. La ternura, el amor y la moraleja están aseguradas en una peli que no dejará indiferente a nadie ni estéticamente ni a nivel de guión.

Sin duda, la peli que estas navidades todos los niños querrán ver.

SYNOPSIS

The action takes the characters to a world where the asteroid that dramatically wiped out the dinosaurs does not hit the Earth. The consequence of this shift is that dinosaurs and humans will have to live together on Earth. On a planet where they shouldn't exist, the world's longest-living animals fight to coexist and maintain peace with humans. In this fictional world where instinct is an everyday weapon, a huge dinosaur named Arlo and a small human kid whom Arlo nicknames Spot will prove that everything is possible. The planet will need to be large enough to accommodate both dinosaurs and humans...

With the charm that can only be achieved when Pixar and Disney come together on a project, this family animation delivers humour and lessons on morality. Friendship, understanding, adaptation and survival are the pillars this story is based on to recount this moving and amusing story. Tenderness, love and morals are present in a movie that won't leave anyone feeling indifferent, either visually or scripturally.

There is no doubt that this is the movie that all children will be longing to see this Christmas.

ESCAPARATES:

¡TODO UN UNIVERSO!

STORE WINDOWS: AN ENTIRE UNIVERSE!

¿Sabías que el escaparate es la ventana a tu tienda? Es el motivo de muchas visitas inesperadas, también de muchas huidas despavoridas... Puede ser un gran aliado o un enemigo: todo depende de ti.

El escaparate contribuye tanto a la venta como a la buena imagen del establecimiento.

Los escaparates son demasiado iguales en todas las calles comerciales de España... y esto puede convertirse en un inconveniente a la hora de llamar la atención sobre los productos, los servicios y la línea de trabajo que define a cada negocio. Y es que para que un escaparate cumpla con su principal cometido que es estimular la entrada del cliente al establecimiento, no es necesaria una gran inversión en

Nos encontramos ante un consumidor cada vez más exigente que, además de elegir un producto porque le gusta y por su calidad, busca el atractivo de los establecimientos que visita. Por este motivo, la decoración comercial es un factor a tener en

Did you know that the storefront window is the window to your store's soul? It is the reason for many unexpected visits, but also for many terrified escapes... it can be a great ally or an enemy: everything depends on you.

The shop window contributes to both the sales and to the good image of the store.

Store windows are too similar to each other across most commercial streets in Spain... and this can be an obstacle when trying to draw attention to the products, services and the line of work that define each business. Because for a window display to comply with its main function, that is, to bring in clients to the store, a great investment in resources is not necessary, just a little bit of imagination and originality!

We are facing consumers that are increasing more demanding and who choose products not just because they like them or for their quality, but who also expect to find the stores they visit are attractive. For this reason, commercial decoration is a factor that must

FORMAS DE COLOCAR EL PRODUCTO

Simétrico

Se llama composición simétrica cuando la distribución de los elementos participantes en el escaparate ocupan el mismo espacio y la misma situación a un lado y al otro de los ejes del escaparate, en su sentido horizontal y vertical.

into play, in direct relation to the product and the consumer, so the end result is a success in sales.

WAYS OF ARRANGING PRODUCTS

Symmetry

We have a symmetrical arrangement when the distribution of the elements that form part of the display are arranged so they occupy the same space and position on both sides of the axis of the window, in both horizontal and vertical directions.

Escaparate abierto simétrico
Open symmetrical Shop window

Asimétrico

Se dirá que un escaparate está compuesto de una forma asimétrica cuando los elementos que lo componen no respondan al mismo orden a cada lado de los ejes, tanto horizontales como verticales.

En la composición asimétrica, emplearemos en principio el mismo sistema que en la composición simétrica, es decir, dividiremos el escaparate en dos ejes, uno horizontal y el otro vertical, la gran variación consiste en que el eje vertical no pasará por el centro del escaparate sino que éste se desplazará bien hacia la derecha o hacia la izquierda, según influya la dirección del paso del peatón u otro elemento (semáforo, paso de peatones, mercado, iglesia, colegio,...). Una vez realizado este paso, las subdivisiones resultantes no serán iguales a ambos lados del eje citado, lo cual, nos permitirá el ocupar diferentes espacios en cada lado del eje.

Asymmetry

We say that a store window is arranged in an asymmetrical way when the elements that form part of it don't respond to the same order on each side of the axes, both horizontally and vertically.

For the asymmetrical arrangement, to start, we will use the same system as with the symmetrical arrangement, that is, we will divide the window into two axis, one horizontal and the other vertical, the big variation here consists in that the vertical axis does not cross the centre of the window, but is moved towards either the right or left, depending on the direction on which people walk by or other elements (traffic lights, pedestrian crossings, markets, churches, schools, etc.). Once this has been done, the subdivisions resulting won't be the same on both sides of the mentioned axis, which allows us to occupy different spaces on each side of the axis.

LAS LÍNEAS IMAGINARIAS

Cuando montamos un escaparate debemos saber la forma idónea de colocar los elementos que lo componen para lograr su equilibrio. A este fin nos servirá de gran ayuda el conocer las sugerencias que las distintas formas crean en la mente de los clientes potenciales que pasean junto al espacio del escaparate.

- Verticales: Son estructurales y aumentan la sensación de altura, además nos proporcionan la sensación de equilibrio.
- Horizontales: nos transmiten placidez, descanso y serenidad, y aumenta la sensación del ancho.
- Diagonales: Sugieren acción y sirven para impulsar la vista hacia una dirección. Son también llamadas direccionales.
- Curvas: Si son suaves significan gracia, voluptuosidad y movimiento. Las cerradas son energía.

Arranging products forming volumes following a pyramidal shape is a simple technique that helps to raise the product to the eyeline, grab attention and achieve better sale results than placing the products flat. The arrangement of products can even help to address the traffic from the store window towards the entrance or bring customers inside the store.

- Radiación: Partiendo de un eje son luz, esperanza y gloria.
- Quebradas: Expresan agitación y lucha.
- Paralelas: Son dos líneas horizontales, por lo cual reúnen las cualidades de ellas, pero al estar en forma paralelas aúnan la sensación de camino, este camino tendrá una dirección cuando las paralelas están formadas por líneas inclinadas (convergentes o divergentes).
- Espirales: Están formadas por líneas curvas y por lo tanto producirán sensación de movimiento, será de aproximación o de lejanía, según se trace de derecha hacia izquierda o viceversa.

Colocar los productos formando volúmenes en forma piramidal es una práctica sencilla que ayuda a elevar el producto a la altura de los ojos, llamar la atención y consigue mejores resultados de ventas que una colocación sobre plano. La colocación de productos incluso puede ayudar a dirigir el tráfico desde el escaparate hacia la entrada o dentro de la tienda.

IMAGINARY LINES

In order to achieve a balance, when we dress a store window we need to know the appropriate way of placing the elements that will form part of it. To achieve this it will be very useful to understand the power that suggestion plays on the mind of potential customers that walk by the store windows.

- Vertical lines: These are structural and enhance the sensation of height. They also provide a sensation of balance.
- Horizontal lines: They transmit a quietness, and a sense of relaxation and serenity. They increase the sensation of width of the window.
- Diagonal lines: Suggest action and work to focus the client's eyeline towards a specific direction. They are also called directional lines.
- Curved lines: If soft, they convey grace, richness and movement. Sharp curves transmit energy.
- Radial lines: When coming from an axis they convey light, hope and glory.
- Broken lines: Express unrest and struggle.
- Parallel lines: These are two horizontal lines, so they have their own qualities too, but if they are placed in parallel they create the illusion of a path, and this path will encourage a specific direction if the lines are not straight (convergent or divergent).
- Spirals: They are made up of curved lines and will therefore emit a sensation of movement, which will convey nearness or remoteness, depending on whether it is traced from right to left or vice versa.

La perspectiva, por otro lado, tiene gran importancia dentro del escaparate, utilizándose para conseguir sensaciones de posición, y esto a su vez está directamente relacionado con la teoría del color. Dependerá de la colocación de los elementos dentro del escaparate para que consigamos un efecto de proximidad o de lejanía.

Más pequeños detrás = Lejanía
Más pequeños delante = Aproximación

El color de los objetos y de los elementos del escaparate también pueden producir el mismo efecto.

Colores calientes = Aproximación
Colores fríos = Lejanía

Las luces también nos van a producir importantes sensaciones según su utilización. Si queremos dar una sensación de lejanía solamente debemos crear una cortina de luz por delante del artículo, si por el contrario queremos aproximar el artículo a nuestro ojo deberemos crear dicha cortina por detrás del artículo.

Los productos que se quieren destacar se colocan en las zonas más atrayentes.

ZONAS DEL ESCAPARATE

Algunos estudios destacan que las zonas de un escaparate que mayor atención del cliente acaparan son:

- En vertical, la zona central con casi un 50% de captación; la zona izquierda un poco más atractiva que la derecha.
- En horizontal, la zona baja (el tercio más bajo del escaparate) con casi un 70% de atracción; la zona más alta tiene escasa atracción y se suele reservar a cartelería.

No todos los puntos dentro de un escaparate tienen la misma capacidad para atraer la atención del cliente. En general los expertos coinciden en que hay zonas más visibles que otras hacia las que se dirigen instintivamente los ojos de las personas que pasan por delante de un escaparate.

Perspective, on the other hand, has great importance in the store window, often being used to create sensations of position, and this is as well related to the theory of colour. Achieving an effect of proximity or remoteness will depend on the arrangement of the elements in the store window.

Smaller items at the back = Remoteness
Smaller items at the front = Proximity

The colour of the items and of the store window elements can also produce the same effect.

Warm colours = Proximity
Cool colours = Remoteness

Light is also going to produce important sensations depending on how we use it. If we want to achieve a feeling of remoteness you just need to create a light curtain in front of the item, if on the other hand, we want to make the item seem closer to the eye, we should try to create this curtain behind the item.

The products that you want to be highlighted should be placed in the most attention grabbing areas.

AREAS OF THE STORE WINDOW

Some studies highlight that the areas of the window that catch the greatest attention of clients are:

- Vertically, the central area grabs almost 50% of the attention; the left-hand side is a little more attractive than the right.
- Horizontally, the bottom area (the lowest third of the window) receives almost 70% of the attention; the highest section is the least attractive and is usually used for posters and graphic signs.

Not all the places inside a window display have the same ability to attract the attention of clients. In general, experts agree that there are areas that are more visible than others, towards which the eyes of those people who pass by the window are instinctively driven to.

Por su configuración se pueden distinguir los siguientes tipos de escaparate:

Escaparate de fondo abierto: Deja ver el interior del punto de venta. Como no existe fondo de ninguna clase, da luz natural y vistosidad a la tienda. Todo el espacio interior tiene un carácter de exposición activa y permanente. Son como una continuación de la tienda. Por otra parte, la ausencia de fondo difumina la luz, se pierde el contraste entre forma y fondo. Es la tendencia más moderna y suele ser el tipo de escaparate más apreciado por el comercio detallista debido a la falta de espacio. Tiene la ventaja y el inconveniente de que propicia la distracción del público, que puede contemplar lo que ocurre en el interior del comercio (la gente atrae a la gente) y no fija la vista en la mercancía expuesta porque el movimiento llama más la atención que los artículos estáticos expuestos en el escaparate.

Escaparate de fondo cerrado: Está concebido como un espacio cerrado, en forma de caja tridimensional. Tiene un fondo que enmarca lo que se quiere destacar y no permite ver el interior de la tienda. Con él se pueden crear ambientes más sofisticados. La presencia del fondo aporta nitidez y claridad, permite una ambientación apropiada por el uso correcto de la luz y el color, proporcionando un efecto más estable y sensación de equilibrio. Los objetos expuestos resaltan sobre el fondo y se capta más fácilmente la atención del receptor. Logra un mayor impacto visual.

Escaparate semiabierto: Está cerrado en la mitad inferior, permite el paso de la luz natural por la parte alta descubierta y corta la visibilidad interior por la parte baja tapada. Parece que está de moda y han empezado a utilizarlo muchos establecimientos, pues se instala fácilmente con estructuras móviles, que no cierran completamente el espacio dedicado al escaparate.

Depending on their shaping, the following types of store windows can be distinguished:

Open back window: This lets customers see the interior of the sale point. As there is no kind of backdrop, it gives the store natural light and showiness. The entire interior space seems like an active and permanent exhibition. It works as a continuation of the store. On the other hand, the lack of back softens the light; the contrast between form and background is lost. This is the most modern trend and it is usually the type of store window that is most appreciated by retail trade due to a lack of space. It has the advantage and the shortcoming that it favours the distraction of customers, as they can see what going on inside the store (people attract people) and doesn't make the eye focus the on the exhibited products, because movement generally draws the eyes attention more than static items displayed in a window.

Closed back window: It is conceived as an enclosed space, in the form of a three dimensional box. It has a back that frames what needs to be highlighted, and doesn't allow the store's interior to be seen. With this kind of store window it is possible to create a more sophisticated atmosphere. The presence of the backdrop provides a sharpness and clarity, allows for the desired atmosphere to be created thanks to the appropriate use of light and colour, providing a more stable effect as well as a sense of balance. The items exhibited stand out against the background and it is easier to draw attention to them. It achieves a greater visual impact.

Semi-open window: The lower half is closed in, which lets natural light enter through the higher uncovered high part and blocks visibility of the interior on the covered lower part. It seems to be in fashion these days and many stores have started to use it, as it can be easily installed with mobile structures that don't close completely the space dedicated to the window.

Por su situación, se distinguen:

Escaparate de fachada: Localizado en el frontal del comercio. Es la situación idónea. Está visible para los viandantes día y noche.

Escaparate de pasillo: Se extiende por los laterales del pasillo de entrada al establecimiento. Una técnica de merchandising consiste en diseñar un escaparate lateral más largo que el otro empujando de este modo al cliente hacia el interior del comercio.

Escaparate interior: Situado dentro del espacio comercial. Son espacios para las acciones de animación dentro del establecimiento -como las vitrinas-. Además, existen los «muestrarios» que son escaparates ubicados en establecimientos no relacionados con el producto, vestíbulos de los cines, estaciones de metro...

Depending on their location, store windows can be classified as:

Facade store windows: Located at the front of the store. It is the ideal window display. It is visible to passers-by day and night.

Corridor store window: It extends through the side of the corridor leading to the store entrance. A merchandising technique is to design a lateral window so it is longer than the other, in this way driving customers into the store.

Interior display window: Located inside a commercial centre. These are spaces – like a display cabinet – for the stores within the commercial centre to display the products customers will find in their stores. Besides this type of window, there are also «display cases» which are display windows located in establishments that are unrelated to the product, for example cinema halls, tube stations, etc...

COLOCACIÓN DEL ESCAPARATE

¿Cómo organizar un escaparate?

Aparte de todo esto hay otros consejos que se deben seguir... te dejamos unas cuantas recomendaciones que te podrás ser de gran ayuda:

- Si llenas el escaparate de objetos pequeños no conseguirás llamar la atención. En ese caso deberás poner los precios, para que cumplan la función informativa. No se trata de llenar el escaparate de productos, sino de conseguir que el cliente entre en la tienda. Bastará con que en un escaparate atractivo haya unos pocos productos interesantes bien dispuestos.
- Cuando no sepas cómo organizar el escaparate, puedes disponerlo simétricamente, como si el lado derecho se reflejara en el izquierdo.
- Abajo, poner lo más interesante.
- Recuerda que lo más importante debe estar delante y lo menos interesante detrás.

DRESSING THE STORE WINDOW

How do you organise a window display?

Besides all this there is more advice that should be followed... we will list several recommendations that should prove very helpful to you:

- If you fill a window display with small items, you will not grab people's attention. In this case you will need to include price tags, so the window complies with an informative function. It is not about filling the store window with products, but about getting the customer to enter the shop. It is enough to have a few interesting products well displayed in an attractive store window.
- When you don't know how to organise the window display, you can set it out symmetrically, reflecting the right-hand side with the left-hand side.
- Display the most interesting items at the bottom.
- Remember that the most important items must be at the front, and the less interesting items at the back.

A young boy with dark hair, wearing a red tank top with blue trim, is sitting on a wooden dock. He is looking towards a calm lake. In the background, there are green trees and a building with a white roof. The scene is bright and sunny.
